The huge aircraft carrier Nimitz was welcomed to Norfolk this week after 143 days at sea. I do not know if any Appomattox servicemen are in the crew. But at least one Appomattox representative is with a naval squad in the Persian Gulf area. Richard L. Wingfield, Jr., is an ensign on duty in that troubled area. A recent VMI grad, as well as ACHS, he gets this newspaper and keeps up with home ties. While he was at VMI I appointed him an "admiral in the Confederate Navy of the Upper Appomattox River." Now he merits a salute and wishes for a successful tour of duty.

"A rose is a rose is a rose" wrote Gertrude Stein, but right now roses are something very special in and around Appomattox. An established rose will bloom for years. I have one about fifteen years old. What's your record? Oldest one I knew was at Rose Bower. My favorite, a climbing darkred Blaze.

Just as I was getting "a ring around the collar" Saturday a shower of rain cut short my lawnmowing. All the excuse I needed. Finished planting all the garden seed, mostly flowers. There is a moment experienced by amateur gardeners when hope springs eternal. The moment becomes a week and yet another week and finally the ground surface breaks and we are so proud. And pride is tempered by awareness that we did not plant some of the things coming up.. Such as weeds. A planted Morning Glory is okay, but I estimated 4,850 volunteers in my garden. Fast as I discourage 'em with a hoe, replacements spring up. Causes you to get behind in fighting honeysuckle. Ah yes, you miss a lot if you forego a garden.

In case you are interested, we will have gnats again this year and bumblebees are on the loose.

"And what is so rare as a day in June? Then, if ever, come perfect days." So wrote James Russell Lowell. And June is around the corner. Father's Day June 15. So much to do. Around town. I noted lots of painting jobs under way. And, glory be, some magnolias in bloom. I have a magnolia in bud and in another week will have a bloom or so. So far have lost only one tomato plant.

I find the word "garden" in The Bible only 26 times. Four in the New Testament. Gardener only once. Gardens 12 times.

Hurrah for our neighboring community of Red House. Just received a wonderful gift. Two fire engines!

* * *

The Virginia highway death toll is slightly higher than at this time last year. Driving a car is serious business and requires constant concentrat i o n. Let's be careful.

William Trent, Oakville, was an excellent football player at ACHS and then at Ferrum Junior College. I understand he will leave soon for a tryout in a professinal football league in Canada. Good luck. Only other pro football player I recall from Appomattox was Larry Robinson, who made it to the Dallas Cowboys.

Well thanks for reading and that's the way it is from Martha Street this last week of the merrie, merrie month of May.

Weekend disturbance

Five arrested in melee

Five men were arrested in Appomattox Saturday night following a melee which nearly turned into a riot.

More than ten state police units were called to the scene of a four-wheel-drive "pull" off Route 24 at about 10:15 p.m. Saturday, after the arrest of an Amelia man sparked a crowd reaction which involved from 100 to 400 of the estimated 1,000 persons present.

Appomattox County Deputy's Sheriff, Philip Seay, said a vehicle pulled up to the starting line of the "pull" when competition officials noticed that the vehicle was leaking fluid.

The officials informed the driver that the leaking fluid was grounds for disqualification. In addition, the vehicle in question had not been weighed prior to the competion, another requirement for participating in the "pull," according to Seay.

After being informed that he would have to leave the competition, the driver allegedly proceeded down the track in a reckless fashion shouting obscenities, according to Seay. The officials of the event asked Seay to remove him from the site.

Seay and another officer then proceeded to arrest the man and put him in the patrol car. At that point, a large crowd gathered around the police vehicle and blocked its path, according to Seay.

The crowd then began to pelt the police car with various objects such as rocks and beer bottles. Seay said at that point he called for aid from the state police.

The state troopers arrived on the scene shortly afterwards, and dispersed the crowd, according to Seay.

Seay said that Daniel Custis Smith, William Alvin Martin, Deck Randal Boyles, Marshall Boyles and Phillip J. Giella, all of Amelia Courthouse, were arrested on charges ranging from throwing missles at an occupied vehicle to assault on a police officer.

Seay added that three more warrants have been secured, but the names of those concerned were being withheld as of press time pending issuance of the warrants.

There were no serious injuries in the incident, according to Seay.

After the disturbance was quelled, the "pull" continued as planned, according to Seay.

The "pull" was a scheduled event planned by the Appomattox Young Farmer Tractor Pullers, Inc.

Murder suspect arrested here

A Spout Spring man was arrested Sunday after the body of a 26-year-old woman was found near the mobile home in which she lived.

Jackie Lewis Robinson, 26, of Route 1, Spout Spring, was charged with murder in connection with the apparent homicide of Casandra Daphne Berry.

According to Appomattox County Sheriff, J. E. Richardson, neighbors of Ms. Berry called the Sheriff's office on Sunday at approximately 3 p.m. to report that they were unable to locate the woman.

About 45 minutes later, the same neighbors called the Sheriff's office again and reported that she had been found in a wooded area not far from her mobile home in the Sleepy Hollow Trailer Park.

Officers from the Sheriff's department responded to the call, where they found the victim.

The regional investigative squad was activated and members from the Virginia State Police, as well as the counties of Campbell, Amherst, Bedford, and the cities of Altavista and Lynchburg responded to the call.

Shortly after notification the suspect, Robinson, was taken into custody and several witnesses were located who were able to provide information helpful to squad members.

Robinson later made a statement to the officers admitting that he caused the death of Ms. Berry. He was scheduled to be arraigned on a formal charge of homicide yesterday, (Wednesday) morning, according to Richardson.

He is being held in jail in lieu of $75,000 bond.

No further information was available until after the arraignment, past the Times-Virginian deadline.
